ABOUT

A captivating voice, intimate songs and an intense stage presence: Yael Miller is a discovery of the moment. Originally from Tel Aviv, she studied voice, piano and trombone at the Yigal Alon Conservatory, before embarking on composition and interpretation of her own projects.

Inspired by Björk, Tom Waits, Sarah Vaughan, James Blake and so many others, Yael flirts with the boundaries of indie pop-rock music. Her music transports the audience to the heart of a deeply moving reality and a poignant imagination.

Yael sings in English, French and Hebrew and accompanies herself on analog synthesizers. Her lyrics highlight her intimacy and dedication. Having grown up in a family where mental illness was deeply present, she traces her childhood, evokes the political climate in Israel, talks about racism and the dictates of body image, the place of feminism and the importance of her closest relations.

Living in Geneva between 2006-2017, Yael Miller was the co-leader of the band Orioxy with whom she released three albums, obtaining international recognition (Grand Jury Prize of the Avignon Jazz festival) and playing on prestigious stages (Jazz à la Villette - Paris, Cully Jazz Festival, Copenhagen Jazz Festival, Alhambra - Geneva, Like a Jazz machine - Luxembourg,...)

A strong desire to explore other artistic directions led her to work with Baptiste Germser as a bass player and producer. With her longtime colleague from Orioxy, drummer Roland Merlinc, she released her first solo EP "Yael Miller" in September 2017.

Now based in Paris, her full length album "00-08" was released in November 2018 (Absilone) and received warm reviews from the press and media in France, Switzerland, England, Belgium and Israel. Recently, the video clip for her single "ANGRY" (Mei Fa Tan Films) was awarded "Grand Jury Prize and "Audience award" at the Tourne Films International Festival in Lausanne (Switzerland).

Yael's other current projects are "VIXA", a Parisian duo with Swedish vibraphonist Linda Edsjö and the Geneva rock band "Cotton Mount", with whom she released the EP "Air Pocket" in September 2019. As an actress, she plays in various shows, the latest being "Le Choeur des Femmes" (which was selected among the 10 best shows of the year 2018 by Le Temps de Genève) as well as musicals, with the Geneva troupe Brico Jardin, for the shows "Petit Robert et le mystère du frigidaire" (2010-2012) and "Lola Folding" (2013-2015).

She also collaborates with musicians on rock (Cotton Mount), jazz (Bopster), rap (Jonas, Rox-Anuar, Trip-in) and klezmer (Hotegezugt, Les Ânes rient de Marie) projects.

ROLAND MERLINC

drums, electronics effects, voice, production

Originally from Lyon, Roland Merlinc is a drummer, composer, arranger and teacher. In 2012 he graduated with honors from the Conservatoire National Supérieur de Paris. He was then able to deepen his knowledge of writing arrangements for duet to symphony orchestra and perfect his instrumental practice. It was with the band Orioxy that he stood out and toured the all over Europe.

At the same time, he had the opportunity to share the stage with great jazz musicians such as Bill Carothers, Fred Hersh, Tim Berne, Marc Copland and Drew Gress. He is also a member of the Loïs Le Van sextet and of the pop band Tram des Balkans. 🔗
